O&G Pipelines

Energy needs in India are projected to grow three times the current figures in the next 10 years. To achieve such levels of energy supplies, the country needs large infrastructure redevelopment activity in our country.

Pipelines are preferred as a cost effective, energy efficient, safe and environment friendly method of transportation in both petroleum and natural gas. New technologies are emerging in piping material, pipe-laying and automation in monitoring and testing. Simultaneously, several business and trade opportunities are coming up with domestic projects like the National Gas Grid, as well as international transportation of oil and gas.

India Oil & Gas: Pipeline Infrastructure Conference 2011

The theme of the 2nd Annual India Oil & Gas Pipeline Infrastructure Conference 2011 (IOG: Pipeline Infrastructure Conference 2011) Changing Dynamics in O&G Pipelines will be instrumental in bringing you up to date on technologies and business opportunities, as well as provide a valuable networking platform. Over the day long conference, delegates will learn about project challenges and emerging technologies as well as benchmark cases and the business environment.

Key Topics For Discussion

In addition to an inaugural session, which will include a Keynote Address and a policymaker's address, and lays down the broad agenda for the rest of the conference, the following sessions will be addressed:
